

DECISION OF THE MANAGEMENT BOARD ON THE PREVENTION AND MANAGEMENT OF POTENTIAL CONFLICTS OF INTEREST

1. Purpose

The management of (potential) conflict of interest situations is a key element of governance and management of every EU institution, body or agency and crucial for maintaining the trust of stakeholders and citizens in its integrity. Effective management of conflicts of interest and assuring legality and regularity of its processes is thus a crucial requirement if ECHA wants to play a pivotal role in ensuring that chemicals legislation and the decision-making processes and scientific basis underlying it have credibility with all stakeholders and the public. For this reason it is vital to ensure ECHA's independence and transparency.¹

In order to achieve this, ECHA has to strike a delicate balance between getting the right expertise to guarantee high quality science-based decision making and at the same time strictly avoiding conflicting interests influencing or seen as influencing the decision-making process. Important tools to achieve this balance are awareness raising, methods for detecting risks to the Agency's integrity, the establishment of clear boundaries for (un)acceptable interests and the appropriate management of conflict of interest situations, including underlying clear procedures. In this, it is not so much a matter of eliminating any possibility of conflict of interest, but of detecting them at an early stage, recording them and handling them appropriately.

2. Scope

This Procedure document applies to the entire ECHA organisation and all of its activities, whether administrative or scientific in nature. The scope thus includes all members, their advisers and invited experts of the ECHA bodies and networks, including the Board of Appeal, the observers participating to their meetings, the statutory staff of the ECHA Secretariat and any contractors working for the Agency.

3. Description

3.1. General principles

3.1.1. Independence and impartiality

Independence from all external interests is one of the core values of the Agency. In all of its processes ECHA shall ensure that it is independent from all external interests and that impartial and science-based decisions are taken. To achieve this, detailed guarantees and checks need to be implemented in the processes of the Agency.

¹ See also recital 95 of Regulation (EC) No 1907/2006 (the "REACH Regulation").

3.1.2. Transparency

Transparency is another core value of ECHA and is strongly embedded in its founding Regulation². Decisions and opinions are formed as openly as possible. For this reason, declarations of interest of the main actors behind ECHA's decision- and opinion-making are made available to the general public.

3.1.3. Confidentiality

Article 105 of the REACH Regulation imposes on the members of the Management Board, the Committees and the Forum as well as on all staff members of the Agency the duty not to disclose information of the kind covered by the duty of professional secrecy, and this even after their duties have ceased. This confidentiality duty is also included in the respective Rules of Procedure of the ECHA bodies and a written declaration of confidentiality is required (the same applies to the advisors, invited experts and observers)³. For the ECHA Secretariat staff also Articles 17 and 19 of the Staff Regulations impose a duty of strict confidentiality. The confidentiality duty shall furthermore also imply that the individuals working for the Agency shall not seek to gain any improper advantages from the information to which they have access and that is covered by the duty of professional secrecy. The management of conflicts of interest is also an element for preventing information leaks.

3.1.4. Awareness

As the Agency's role is to promote the public interest in an independent and transparent manner with respect for confidentiality rules, it is crucial that the individuals working with the Agency understand that the exercise of public authority comes with certain duties. The Agency shall support these individuals in fulfilling their duties, raise awareness, organise training and set up further implementing procedures for identifying and handling conflict of interest situations.

3.2. Preventing conflicts of interest

The first responsibility with regard to preventing conflicts of interest and with respect to confidentiality rules shall lie with the public officials and other individuals working for the Agency. To this effect, they must submit and keep up-to-date declarations of interest compliant with the template in annex 1.

3.2.1 Before working for the Agency

For the positions for which the ECHA Management Board is the Appointing Authority, it has adopted eligibility criteria (MB/45/2013 final) with which candidates for the position of Executive Director, Accounting Officer, member of the Board of Appeal or member in the Committee for Risk Assessment and the Committee for Socio-economic Analysis have to comply to be considered for appointment.

To this end, such candidates are invited to fill in a declaration of interest already after inclusion on the list of candidates proposed by the Commission or after their nomination by their respective Member State, but before their appointment by the Management Board.

² See for instance recital 95 and Articles 77(2) (e) to (n), 106 to 109 and 117 to 119 of the REACH Regulation.

³ See Article 10 of the respective Rules of Procedure of the Committees and of the Forum and Article 13 of the Rules of Procedure of the Management Board.

For the positions for which the ECHA Management Board is not the Appointing Authority (membership in the Management Board, the Member State Committee, the Biocidal Products Committee and the Forum), the Management Board has adopted eligibility guidelines (MB/45/2013 final) to which the relevant Appointing Authorities are invited to adhere, with the exception of the Commission when appointing the three Management Board members to represent interested parties.

In line with Article 11 of the Staff Regulations, before recruitment, all candidates for a position in the Agency as statutory staff member are requested to make a written declaration of interest in order for the Appointing Authority to be able to assess any potential conflicts of interest in relation to the specific position that may be offered and to take appropriate mitigating measures if necessary.

3.2.2 While working for the Agency

ECHA bodies and ECHA Secretariat

Annual declarations

According to Article 88(2) of the REACH Regulation, all members of the Management Board and of the Committees and the Forum shall, when taking up their duties, make a written declaration of interest which could be considered to be prejudicial to their independence. Also all members of the Board of Appeal are required to make an annual declaration of interest in writing.

The initial declarations are renewed annually. The secretariat of the respective ECHA body is in contact with members in order to ensure that regular updates are provided. If at any point in time changes occur to the situation of the member's interests, he/she makes an updated declaration without delay.

The respective secretariat of the ECHA body shall enter the declarations of interest in a register, which is also published on the ECHA website. Subsequently, the respective secretariat and chair shall monitor the declarations regularly to identify potential risks and handle situations of potential conflicting interests in compliance with the present procedure (see further under chapter 3.3.) and specific implementing rules. The respective secretariat shall also undertake sample checks to guarantee the accuracy and completeness of the declarations submitted by the members of the ECHA bodies.

Upon entry into the service at the Agency, the duty to declare all interests annually which is imposed on the Executive Director by the REACH Regulation is extended to all staff of the Agency. Besides filling in an initial declaration at the start of their employment, all staff members shall thus provide an annual update of this declaration. For the management staff (Executive Director, Directors and Heads of Unit) and the chairpersons of the ECHA Committees, these declarations shall be published on the ECHA website.

If at any point in time changes occur to the situation of the staff member's interests, the person involved must update his/her declaration without delay.

Specific declarations

At each meeting the Management Board members and the members of the Committees and the Forum (and their advisors), observers and any experts participating in the meeting are explicitly asked by the chair to declare any interests which could be considered to be prejudicial to their independence with respect to any of the points on the agenda. Such conflicting interests are recorded in the minutes together with the specific mitigating measures imposed (see also chapter 3.3).

When a Committee member is appointed as Rapporteur or Co-Rapporteur, he or she needs to make for each case a written declaration of absence of conflict of interest in line with Article 87(1) of the REACH Regulation. A member of a Committee is not appointed rapporteur for a particular case if he/she indicates any interest that might be prejudicial to the independent consideration of that case.

The members of the Board of Appeal are required to make an ad-hoc declaration for each specific case before the allocation of that case to them.

If at any point in time the staff member's independence to work on a specific dossier is at risk, the person involved must declare the specific interest in the dossier at hand to the process owner of the process in which he/she operates.

Networks and expert groups

Several networks and expert groups support the Agency in its work. As these networks and expert groups have a balanced composition, and as they are only advisory bodies, the risk of conflicting interests affecting the formal work of ECHA is minimal. However, it shall be a standard practice that the person chairing these meetings requests, when relevant, that any conflicting interests are declared at the start of each meeting and documented in the minutes. Where necessary, ECHA may also impose other preventive measures, including e.g. annual declarations of interest.

Observers

As set out above, ECHA welcomes the attendance of observers of the stakeholder organisations at the meetings of the Committees, the Forum and informal ECHA networks selected by the respective body or network. These stakeholder observers have to comply with the Code of conduct for observers⁴ and need to declare any interest in the cases dealt with by the respective Committee or network at the start of the meeting.

Furthermore, the Rules of Procedure of an ECHA body may foresee the possibility to invite case owners or applicants to participate in a meeting or part of it as observers. As these case owner/applicant observers clearly are attending the meeting to defend the interests of their organisation in a particular dossier, it is unnecessary that they make a declaration of interest. Strict compliance with the applicable Code of conduct shall be enforced⁵.

Contractors

Whenever the Agency is contracting external service providers to support it in its tasks, it shall ensure that these contractors are bound by confidentiality duties and that potential conflicts of interest are avoided. Both a confidentiality clause and a conflict of interest clause are included in all such contracts that ECHA concludes. Based on those contractual provisions, the Agency may require external consultants (regardless of him/her working intra-muros or not) or interim staff to make a specific declaration of interest with regard to the work performed for ECHA, in case their participation has a qualitative impact on the decision-making at the Agency.

⁴ Code of conduct for observers at ECHA meetings (ED/62/2008).

3.2.3 After work for the Agency has ended

Members of the ECHA bodies, staff members of the Agency, members of networks or expert groups, observers and third parties working with the Agency shall be required, even after their duties have ceased, not to disclose information of the kind covered by the duty of professional secrecy⁶.

When a staff member leaves the service at ECHA, he/she shall continue to be bound by the duty to behave with integrity and discretion as regards the acceptance of certain appointments or benefits. They shall be reminded of their duties under the Staff Regulations and shall duly sign a document regarding integrity, discretion and confidentiality.

Furthermore, when leaving the Agency service, former ECHA staff have to notify the Agency for a period of two years any new occupational activity they intend to engage in. If that activity is related to the work carried out by the staff member during the last three years of service and could lead to a conflict with the legitimate interests of the Agency, the Appointing Authority can, if needed, either forbid the former staff member from undertaking it or give its approval subject to any conditions it thinks fit (Article 16 Staff Regulations).

3.3. Identifying and Handling potential conflicts of interest

3.3.1. General assessment criteria

The interests to be assessed shall include all private interests in the field of activity of the Agency, and more in particular employment, consultancy, legal representation or advice; membership of a governing body or scientific advisory body; other memberships and affiliations; research funding; investments; intellectual property; public statements and positions and any other interests that may interfere (or may be seen as interfering) with the work of the Agency (see annex 1, declaration of interest template).

When assessing whether certain of the above interests held by an individual working for the Agency are to be considered as constituting an actual or perceived conflict of interest, the following minimum criteria shall be taken into account:

- Not only personal interests, but also all relevant interests held by close family members (i.e. members of the same household: spouse, partner and dependent children) need to be considered;
- Not only current interests, but also those that existed during the last 5 years preceding the assessment shall be considered (with an exception for investments, intellectual property and interests held by close family members for which only current interests are of relevance);
- All financial investments in a commercial entity that amount to a value above 10,000 EUR per company or shares, stocks or comparable amounting to a voting right of 5% or more in a company (notwithstanding their financial value) are to be considered;

Besides these minimum criteria, the assessor (chair of ECHA body, line manager/process owner for ECHA staff) shall take into account the other elements of the case, including the importance of the interest declared, the role of the individual holding the interest, specific mitigating measures and controls imposed, the importance and impact of the decision or opinion to be drafted, the availability of alternates or other experts, etc.

3.3.2. Mitigating measures for case-specific conflicts of interest

Management Board, Committees and Forum

Members who have not submitted the annual declaration of interest shall not take part in meetings of the ECHA body and its working groups or decisions by written procedure.

The annual declaration of interest of the Executive Director is reviewed by the Chair of the Management Board.

It shall be the task of the respective secretariat to regularly monitor the annual declarations made by the members and to bring any potential conflict of interest to the attention of the respective chair. The Executive Director shall also be informed of any such cases. On the basis of the type and nature of the potential conflict identified, the chairperson shall decide on the appropriate level of participation in the work of the ECHA body.

Furthermore, the chair will ask members and their advisors as well as invited experts and observers to declare any interests at the beginning of each meeting and any declared interests will be recorded in the minutes. On the basis of the type and nature of the potential conflict identified, the chairperson shall decide on the appropriate level of participation. This applies accordingly for the cases of written procedures in ECHA bodies. As a minimum, such person shall not participate in any voting on the relevant agenda point (see Article 88(3) of REACH). Such person shall also not transfer his/her voting right by proxy to another member, which does not preclude the replacement by an alternate. The member concerned shall also not be appointed as (co-)rapporteur for a particular case if he indicates any conflicting interests (see Article 87(1) of REACH).

Additionally, where further steps are deemed necessary, the chair shall at least have at his/her disposal any of the following instruments to mitigate the issue:

- The member concerned can participate to the discussions but shall not participate to the final deliberations on the relevant agenda point;
- The member concerned shall not participate to the discussions or final deliberations on the relevant agenda point;
- The member concerned is to leave the room for the duration of the relevant agenda point;
- The member concerned shall participate only as an expert witness in order to testify and give specialist advice on a specific issue by providing information and replying to any questions;
- In the case that an alternate can be appointed in the pertinent ECHA body, the member concerned may be replaced by his/her alternate for the relevant agenda point;
- Where the Chair is concerned, he/she is to be replaced for the relevant agenda point.

Board of Appeal

The annual declarations of the Board of Appeal members are monitored by its Chair. The Chairman's declarations are monitored by the longest serving member of the Board of Appeal. Specific, case-related declarations by a member of the Board of Appeal are assessed by the other Board of Appeal members, who shall decide as to the action to be taken.

If a member of the Board of Appeal considers that because of a conflict of interests he must not take part in the specific legal proceedings, he shall inform the Board of Appeal accordingly. The Chairman may replace that member by an alternate.

Likewise, members of the Board of Appeal may be objected to by any party to the appeal proceedings on the grounds of possible conflicts of interest. In this situation, the Board of Appeal shall decide as to the action to be taken without the participation of the member concerned. For the purpose of taking this decision, the member concerned shall be replaced by an alternate.⁷

ECHA Secretariat

The process owners shall, based on a risk assessment, define the processes in the Agency that require interest management. In such processes, conflict of interest checks shall be performed each time a staff member is assigned to a role in the process. Such interest checks are performed on the basis of the annual and specific declarations made by the staff members concerned and documented by the process owner. If there is a potential conflict of interest, another staff member shall be assigned, unless appropriate mitigating measures are imposed to guarantee the independent outcome of the procedure.

3.3.3. Mitigating measures for conflicts of interest of a general nature and breach of trust

ECHA bodies

Any false declaration, wilful omission or refusal to declare interests or any other failure to comply with this procedure may be seen as a breach of trust towards the Agency. The same applies for any persistent conflict of interest which seriously hampers the functioning of the ECHA body.

The respective chair of the ECHA body can decide on remedial actions to address an alleged breach of trust. In case the remedial actions do not bring the expected outcome, the chair in consultation with the Executive Director shall send a formal notification to the Appointing Authority⁸ stating the nature of the problem.

The respective Appointing Authority is responsible for adopting any formal decision as a consequence of a (potential) conflict of interest when they are informed of a situation which may be detrimental to the Agency. Such decision may vary from a letter of reprimand to the request or duty to resign or the revocation of the nomination / appointment.

The members of the Board of Appeal may not be removed from office unless there are serious grounds and only by decision of the Commission, after obtaining the opinion of the Management Board.

⁷ See Article 90 (5)-(7) REACH Regulation.

⁸ For the Management Board the appointing authority is either the European Council (for the members nominated by the Member States), the Commission or the Parliament (Article 79 REACH Regulation). The appointing authority for the Member State Committee, the Biocidal Products Committee and the Forum are the respective Member States (Article 85(3) and 86 REACH Regulation and Article 75(2) BPR), while for the Board of Appeal, the Committee for Risk Assessment and the Committee for Socio-economic Analysis the appointing authority is the ECHA Management Board or the Committee in the case of co-opted members.

In case the Executive Director is not satisfied with the remedies put in place by the chair or by the Appointing Authority, he/she shall inform the ECHA body concerned of this fact in its next meeting and have it noted in the minutes of the meeting.

Anyone affected by a decision of the chair of an ECHA body to implement remedial actions can request the Chair of the Management Board for a review of such decision. The Chair of the Management Board, in consultation with the Executive Director, shall decide on the follow-up, with the possibility to consult the Conflicts of Interest Advisory Committee.

ECHA staff

Any persistent conflict of interest that may hamper the proper functioning of an ECHA staff member in his/her current function shall be assessed by the respective line managers and escalated towards the Appointing Authority for decision if necessary. Where necessary, appropriate mitigating measures will be implemented (e.g. change in task description, move to another position in the interest of service, etc.)⁹. The Appointing Authority shall have the possibility to consult the Conflicts of Interest Advisory Committee before deciding on the action to take.

Any false declaration or wilful omission of potential conflicts of interest, as well as the refusal to declare interests may result in disciplinary action under the Staff Regulations.

Ex-post review

If the person concerned by an established breach of trust was involved in an opinion- or decision-making procedure, the Agency may carry out an ex post review of the person's activities and contributions to the Agency's output.

3.3.4. Conflicts of Interest Advisory Committee

A Conflicts of Interest Advisory Committee (CoIAC) is established as an advisory body in the context of this Procedure. It is available to the Management Board, the Committees and the Forum as well as to the Executive Director for advice on matters related to (potential) conflicts of interest of individuals staffing the Agency or members of its bodies. It is composed of the Head of the Legal Affairs unit of the Agency, Chair, of a person designated by the Management Board and of an outside expert designated by the Executive Director for its competence in the field of conflicts of interest.

The Executive Director can consult the CoIAC in all stages of the process of handling a potential situation of conflicting interests, to seek their advice on the individual case at hand. The chair of any of the ECHA bodies can also request the Executive Director to consult CoIAC. On request of the Executive Director, possibly prompted by the chair of an ECHA body, the CoIAC issues a reasoned advice, without prejudice to the decision-making powers of the Agency body requesting it.

For issues related to the Board of Appeal, the Management Board has established a standing working group. This working group can also provide advice on issues related to (potential) conflicts of interest. Where necessary and as appropriate, the working group may ask the Chair of the Management Board to consult the CoIAC in order to guarantee consistency in the application of conflict of interest criteria within the Agency.

⁹ For the regular members of the Board of Appeal (who are also ECHA staff) the provisions of Article 90 of the REACH Regulation will apply.

3.4. Further implementation

As the legal representative of the Agency and responsible for the daily management of the Agency, the Executive Director shall adopt implementing rules to this policy, containing the detailed procedures for preventing and handling conflicts of interest. He/she shall regularly report on the implementation of the policy to the Management Board and in the annual activity report of the Agency.

The ECHA bodies shall include detailed provisions for the implementation of this procedure into their respective Rules of Procedures, Codes of Conduct and working procedures. Where necessary and if applicable, the chair may decide to impose the same requirements on the regular members of working groups established by the respective ECHA bodies.

The staff of the ECHA Secretariat shall further comply with all other obligations that are imposed on them by the Staff Regulations (see Articles 11 to 19) and its implementing rules.

5. Annexes

Annex 1 - Template for Declaration of Interest

Annex 1 - ECHA DECLARATION OF INTEREST

There is a conflict of interest where the impartiality and objectivity of a decision, opinion or recommendation of the Agency and/or its bodies, is or might in the public perception be compromised by an interest held by, or entrusted to, an individual working for the Agency.

Please note that having an interest does not necessarily mean having a conflict of interest. In particular, high quality of (scientific) expertise is by nature based on prior experience. Declaring an interest does therefore not automatically disqualify you or limit your participation in the activities of the European Chemicals Agency.

On the other hand it should be emphasised that this declaration of interest form does not contain an exhaustive list of potential interests and that all other elements that might jeopardise your independence when working with the Agency should thus also be indicated. Your answers will then be reviewed and dealt with in accordance with the ECHA Procedure for Prevention and Management of potential Conflicts of Interest.
